All-tantuya

'I wish for Woman to live, first for God's sake'
 - Margaret Fuller (nineteenth-century Woman)

Amina, 'my own life' is dead. I stare blindly out of the 2 sockets of these eyes, in the 2 columns of a newspaper I hear 2 shots. And then C-4 Explosives. I see red. Amina, 'my own life.' your still blue lips articulate the poverty of spirit the profanity, the nothingness of Poetry - of Woman-in Malaysia where the zealous call for Prayer only 5 times daily. 2 shots. And C-4 explosives next, screaming Murder, accelerating, Escalating even e.e.cummings Notion on She the equation on Woooooo-man being like Brand...(XIX) crashing her like a car blasting her like a bar using her like a shield shooting her in a field even on deaf ears 5 calls sound callous. Amina, 'my own life' in white shroud outrages the modesty of God, mourn now the color red made in-auspicious the color of Amina, 'my own life' dead.

Amina, 'my own life'
 Altantuya! Altantuya!
 Altantuya! Altantuya!
 Altantuya!

when the poetry of
 a woman's blood is poured
 in an arbitrary way cry out:

Tanah tumpahnya darah ku

when you tie a red knot around your neck minister to my heart
 call out:

Tanah tumpahnya darah ku

when you hear 5 calls for prayer
 2 shots. And the C-4 explosive shed tears:

Tanah tumpahnya darah ku

weep for Amina, My own life, first for God's sake, I wish for Woman to live.

Then for Justice,
Call 5 times, daily.

that sounds the same in Mongolian, Russian, French and English.
